

Claims

It is claimed:

1. A kit apparatus for decorating a human body comprising:
  - a patterned transfer sheet having a plurality of releasable themed ornamental patterns thereon; and
    - a plurality of capsules containing one or more sprinkle-able decorative materials.
2. The kit apparatus of claim 1, further comprising a plurality of ornamental studs.
3. The kit apparatus of claim 2, wherein the plurality of ornamental studs is selected from the group consisting of metal spikes having a flat back surface, metal studs having a flat back surface, and pseudo-jewels having a flat back surface.
4. The kit apparatus of claim 1, further comprising an instruction sheet.
5. The kit apparatus of claim 1, wherein the patterned transfer sheet further comprises a double-sided medical grade adhesive material sandwiched between two release liners.
6. The kit apparatus of claim 5, wherein the patterned transfer sheet is die cut to form the plurality of releasable themed ornamental patterns.
7. The kit apparatus of claim 6, wherein the plurality of releasable themed ornamental pattern comprise geometric shapes.
8. The kit apparatus of claim 6, wherein the plurality of releasable themed ornamental pattern comprise holiday themed shapes.
9. The kit apparatus of claim 6, wherein the plurality of releasable themed ornamental pattern comprise erotic themed shapes.

10. The kit apparatus of claim 1, wherein the sprinkle-able decorative material is selected from the group consisting of colored sand, colored cosmetic grade glitter, and glow-in-the-dark powder.

11. A method for forming temporary body art, the method comprising:
peeling one of a plurality of releasable themed ornamental patterns from a patterned transfer sheet, each of the plurality of releasable themed ornamental patterns having a first exposed adhesive side and a backing side;
applying a sprinkle-able decorative material to the first exposed adhesive side of the releasable themed ornamental pattern;
peeling a backing off of the backing side of the releasable themed ornamental pattern to form temporary body art having a second exposed adhesive side; and affixing the second exposed adhesive side of the temporary body art to the human body.

12. The method of claim 11, wherein the wherein the sprinkle-able decorative material is selected from the group consisting of colored sand, colored cosmetic grade glitter, and glow-in-the-dark powder.

13. The method of claim 11 further comprising applying an ornamental stud to the first exposed adhesive side of the releasable themed ornamental pattern.

14. The method of claim 13, wherein the wherein the ornamental stud is selected from the group consisting of metal spikes having a flat back surface, metal studs having a flat back surface, and pseudo-jewels having a flat back surface.

15. The method of claim 11, wherein the patterned transfer sheet further comprises a double-sided medical grade adhesive material sandwiched between two release liners.
16. The method of claim 15, wherein the patterned transfer sheet is die cut to form the plurality of releasable themed ornamental patterns.
17. The method of claim 16, wherein the plurality of releasable themed ornamental pattern comprise geometric shapes.
18. The method of claim 16, wherein the plurality of releasable themed ornamental pattern comprise holiday themed shapes.
19. The method of claim 16, wherein the plurality of releasable themed ornamental pattern comprise erotic themed shapes.